Bellefonte fish hatchery

THE NEW STATE HATCHERY

The First Assignment of Trout Eggs Received.

MARKED FORMAL OPENING

Brief Speeches by Fish Commissioner W. E. Meehan—Prof. H. A. Surface, Judge John G. Love and Supt. N. R. Buller.

LARGE ATTENDANCE OF VISITORS

With ceremonies befitting the importance of such an event the new State Fish Hatchery located on an ideal spot at Pleasant Gap station four miles from Bellefonte was formally opened Monday afternoon. Pennsylvania will soon be stocking its streams with young trout, bass and bull frogs from this new hatchery.

The exercises took place about 4:15 o'clock or just as soon as the afternoon train from Harrisburg arrived with Fish Commissioner William E. Meehan and party on board.

Hundreds of people were present and showed the greatest interest in all that transpired. The Pennsylvania State College Cadet Band furnished the music for the occasion.

The first consignment of fish eggs from the Allentown hatchery was deposited in the tanks of the new establishment. Brief speeches were made by Judge John G. Love, Fish Commissioner Wm. E. Meehan and Economic Zoologist H. A. Surface.

The Bellefonte hatchery, it is expected, will eventually be the best plant in the State, though it will take a couple of years to fully complete it as now planned out. The main building for the hatching of trout fry is 100x30 feet and capable of holding 105 sets of hatching troughs. Surrounding it will be twenty-five concrete pools for raising the fry till they are large enough for shipment.

The springs from which the water supply is obtained give forth a flow of 8000 gallons per minute, the water having a mean temperature of 50 degrees.

The hatchery grounds now embrace about twenty acres, situated around the railroad station at Pleasant Gap, on the L. and T. Railroad. Half of the plot will be utilized for the hatching of trout, with a capacity of from 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 fry a year. The remainder of the ground will be used for the hatching of bass, gold fish and frogs.

Ponds for the habitation of the trout breeders and for bass hatching will be constructed all over the plot which will be laid out with walks and drives and planted with shade trees.

The trout building was constructed under the supervision of N. R. Buller, who came here from Corry to take charge.

It is expected that by the first of the year the entire stock of the Allentown hatchery will have been transferred here. The Allentown plant will be dismantled.

COLONEL CURTIN'S STORY

INteresting Account of Battle Field Commissioner's Visit

TO AN HISTORIC SPOT OF GROUND

The Famous Battlefield of Antietam—Of interest to Old Soldiers and Lovers of History Everywhere.

CENTRE COUNTY PLAYED A PART

I now come to write about why we were there on this occasion, I have endeavored in the foregoing to give some little account of the Battle Field of Antietam so called by our Army, but by the Rebel Army Sharpsburg, from the name of the town, but from our Army from the name of the creek which formed no unimportant part in the great struggle. The last legislature appropriated a sum of money for the erection of monuments on that field to Penna. Regiments who had no monuments at or on any other field of the War, there were 12 Regiments and one Battery of the Penna. line who came under that bill. The 45th, P. V. 48th, 50th, 51st, and 100th, three year Regiments in the Ninth Corps, also the Battery belonged to that Corps, then the 12th, Cavalry another three year Regiment came in for the same. Then in other Corps were the 124th, 128th, 130th, 132d, 187th, all nine months troops, the amount appropriated for each of those mentioned was 2500, dollars, and 2500 for expenses of the Commission and committees locating the monuments and seeing to their erection. The Commission which is an appointment by the Governor is composed of men who were there as members of some one or more of the Regiments to be represented, a committee from each of the Commands, were also present who had the selection of the place where such or such a monument was to be put up, which site was submitted to the Commission as was also the design of the monument if approved it will be ordered and erected. The Commission for Antietam is Col. Joseph W. Hawley (late Col. 124th,) of Media, President Col. O. C. Bosbyshell (late of 48th, P. V.) of Phila; Treas. and Gen'l William J. Bolton (late of 51st. P. V.) of Phila. then from each Reg't which is mentioned above, there was a committee, and a number of men from the different commands were also present who were not connected with the Committees, only the Committee and Commission received expenses, in all there were about 75 old soldiers and some of the wives of old soldiers there on that day, Capt. Frank R. Leib of Harrisburg late of 48th, P. V., is the secretary and a very efficient one he is too, it was through him all the arrangements for transportation was made and also arrangements for conveyances to take all the visitors over the field which was so well conducted.

Those who represented the 45th, P. V. V. (which is the one we are particularly interested in as one of that old Command.) were Gen'l John I. Curtin Chairman, (Commanded the Reg't in that fight as Lieut, Col. 45th,) Dr. J. A. Myers who was Hospital Steward of the 45th, he lives now in Columbia, John W. Buckley late of Co. I, 45th, Wellsboro, Pa., J. Hall Musser late of Co. C, 45th, Harrisburg, and the writer who commanded Co. D, that day of the fight, and is the one of the two survivors who did command a Company there in the 45th, P. V. The General and the writer left home on the 18th, and arrived at Hagerstown that evening had to remain there all night and when ready to leave there for Antietam next morning, all the other Regimental representatives were on hand many having come in on later trains, we arrived at Antietam next morning, all the other Regimental representatives were on hand many having come in on later trains, we arrived at Antietam Station (14 miles) at 8 a. m. found hacks and carriages and wagons in sufficient number to convey us to the various points of interest in and about the field. We were first taken to the town and thence to the what was our right on that day, and began the business which brought us there, the location of the monuments. The first one to be located was the 125, which was but little ways from the Dunkard Church and right along side of the one erected by the 34th, N. Y. Reg't it was almost the very right flank of the army that day, then in a very little while all the sites for monuments for nine months Regiments were located and also the 12th, Cavalry.

NORMAL WINS.

Academy Boys Defeated at Foot Ball —Score 5 to 0.

The Lock Haven Normal foot ball team came here Saturday to play a return game with the Bellefonte Academy. The visitors two week ago, on their own grounds experienced the greatest difficulty in winning from the Academy by the score of one touchdown to nothing, this, too, in face ot the fact that the Normals are far heavier than the Academy boys. The game Saturday should have been a very pretty one, on the contrary, however, it was one of the roughest games ever played on the Bellefonte grounds. The Academy boys can not be blamed for their part of it, for in the opening play, the kickoff, John Weaver, the star quarterback of the Academy team, was blocked so roughly in the head that he was dazed and failed to recover himself during the entire game. The result was that the Academy lost a splendid chance to score when they had the ball within one rush of the touchdown line.

The Academy boys could not help but feel that this rough treatment of Weaver was the result of a plot to get him out of the game early. The visitors, knowing full well, what a tower of strength this engineer of the Academy's play proved in the game at Lock Haven. Whether it was a plot or not, is not known, but the feeling that it was intended caused bad blood throught the entire game. In spite of this, however, some very clever playing was done by both sides. For the visitors Caldwin, the one hundred and ninety pound full-back was the most consistent ground gainer. He made the only score of the game near the close of the first half. No goal was kicked. Score 5 to 0.

Every man on the home team played the game of his life so that it is unfair to mention anyone in particular.

A large crowd witnessed the contest. Two twenty minutes halves were played Mr. Bush, of Bellefonte refereed and Professor Griffith of Lock Haven umpired.

Among the interested spectators were Dr. Flickinger, President of the Normal school, his wife; Mrs. Griffith and Mr. Lindemuth, of Clearfield, who has a son at the Academy. The day was an ideal one for this past-time.

The Post-Office Robbers Convicted.

The four post-office robbers who were arrested in the old Faust hotel barn in the Seven mountains, south of Potters Mills, on June 20th, by sheriff Taylor and his posse, were tried at Scranton last week and convicted.

The three men William Palmer, Samuel Shireman and James Ryan went on the stand and swore that they had never seen their companion, James Lewis, before the time he was pulled out of the hay loft after being shot by treasurer Foster, this to prove that the real leader of their gang was not known to them.

Notwithstanding their perjury the entire quartet was convicted on all three counts, viz : Robbing the post-offices at Rutherford, Woodward and Linden Hall.

Ryan and Lewis each received six years in the penitentiary. Shireman and Palmer were sentenced to seven years each. They received the extra year because they were positively identified as having held a man up at Rutherford.

To Get Mill Hall Plant.

According to a dispatch sent out from Lewistown the Mann Edge Tool company, of that place, has secured an option on the large works of the ax trust at Mill Hall and will on January 1 buy the latter. The Mann works at Lewistown will continue the business just as if this outside deal had not been made.

A bit of diplomacy shook the trust till it made the offer to sell out its Mill Hall plant without "water." Joseph R. Mann, president of the Lewistown company, went to Mill Hall some months ago, secured a good location and begun preparations for erecting an additional factory. The trust, having no desire to try such competition, was soon ready to give an option on its Mill Hall plant.

Jackson—Witherite.

John Thomas Jackson, of Lemont, and Miss Minnie May Witherite, of Clarence, were married by Rev. A. A. Black at the Reformed parsonage in Boalsburg, Tuesday evening.

—There is just a possibility that when all the facts in connection with the United States shipbuilding case have been disclosed, the reason why Mr. Schwab retired from the presidency of the United States Steel corporation will become known.—Albany Journal.

OUR ORGAN CONTEST

It Is Now Rapidly Drawing to A Close.

WILL END SATURDAY AT 6 P. M.

Final Count Will Take Place in Fortney & Walker's Office at 7 O'clock Saturday Evening.

LAST COUPON IN THIS ISSUE

The contest for the handsome Burdett Organ which the Bellefonte Republican will give to the church receiving the most votes on coupons cut from this paper closes next Saturday evening at 6 o'clock. Votes received after that hour will positively not be counted.

This contest began last June and has awakened the greatest interest. There were several contestants at the start but it finally narrowed down to the Union Chapel, a pretty little church located between here and Milesburg and the Lutheran church located at Pleasant Gap. It has been hotly contested and the end is not yet. There is lots of time between this and Saturday to turn the tide of success one way or the other.

The count this week shows Union Chapel in the lead but there is no telling how many votes have been held in reserve so that either the Lutheran or Union Chapel have a fair chance to land the organ.

The organ has been on exhibition for the past two weeks at M. C. Gephart's music store, Bellefonte and has been much admired.

Now a word as to the final count. The contest as previously stated closes Saturday at 6 p. m. The ballot box will immediately be sealed up and taken to the office of one of the Judges W. Harrison Walker Esq., chief Burgess of Bellefonte. He with the other judge William N. Haines, of the Standard Scale & Supply Company, have arranged to count the votes at 7 o'clock on Saturday evening and any one interested in either the Lutheran church or Union Chapel have the privilege of being present if they so desire to see that everything is fairly done.

Each weekly count of votes has been placed in a separate envelope with date marked thereon so that if necessary the whole vote can be gone over.

It has been the endeavor of the Republican to see that the contest was fairly conducted from start to finish and it is hoped that whichever church wins the victory will be fairly won.

Remember that the voting coupon appears in this issue for the last time and send in your votes by Saturday.

JACOB SANKEY

died at the Old Man's Home in Philadelphia on Sunday. Mr. Sankey was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sankey and was born in Millheim 85 years ago. All his life, with the exception of a few years that he lived in Sugar valley, was spent in Millheim until, in his old age, he went to the Old Man's Home in Philadelphia. He was united in marriage with Miss Sarah Krotzer, who preceded him to the grave. Three children were born to this union, viz—Mrs. Catharine Heckman, wife of Adam N. Heckman, of Nittany valley; Samuel K., of Philadelphia, and Charles, who died a number of years ago.

MRS. SARAH J. MUSSER, wife of Samuel D. Musser, died suddenly at her home in Scranton on Saturday morning, aged 57 years. Mrs. Musser was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cantner, and was born at Milroy. Interment in Fairview cemetery.

Stormstown People Working for The Hospital.

Up to this time several communities in the county have made organized efforts to help maintain the hospital in this place, which must be regarded as a purely county institution. The ladies of Centre Hall have already done good work in that direction, the employees of the mines at Scotia have generously raised $100 among themselves, those in the Nittany valley mines have added a goodly cash contribution out of their earnings and the men of the Bellefonte and Nittany furnaces have done wonderfully well in their laudable work of raising money for the institution, the people about Waddles sent in a fine donation a week or so ago and have a nice cash contribution to make also.

These represent the effort outside of Bellefonte up to this time, but the people of Stormstown and vicinity have put their shoulders to the wheel now and on Friday night, Oct. 30th, they are going to give a chicken and waffle supper for the benefit of the hospital. It will be served in the Odd Fellows hall at Stormstown and every body is invited to partake of it.

There have been several patients from that community in the hospital since its opening so that the Stormstown people are acquainted, to a certain extent, with the work that is being done; in fact they feel grateful for the good the institution has already been to their sick and distressed and their gratitude is finding expression in substantial manner.

Attempted Suicide.

The Houtzdale Citizen of last week says: Because of being jilted by his best girl a young man hailing from Philipsburg tried to take his life via the laudanum route at one of our hotels the other day. Medical aid was summoned in time to save the foolish young man's life, and it is hoped that he'll have more sense than to repeat the dose.

BITNER REUNION.

Children of Catharine Bitner Congregated Saturday Under Parental Roof.

The home of Mrs. Catharine Bitner, at Spring Mills, was enlivened Saturday Oct, 17th., by the return of all her children and many of her grand children. The occasion was the seventy-sixth birthday of Grandma Bitner.

It was a great day for her.

Her six boys were there. Two came from Nebraska and one from Millersville, Lancaster county, Pa. Both of her daughters were there to greet her and wish her many happy returns, one coming from Steubensville, Ohio. It was a great surprise for Mrs. Bitner.

The daughters and daughters-in-law prepared a sumptuous feast for the occasion, and everything possible was done to make the dinner resemble the time when all were boys and girls together at home.

After dinner the photographer was summoned, and took a picture of the happy group.

Four generations were present.

The children are: William B. and Robert U., Spring Mills; Joseph K. and Mrs. Susan C. Meyer, Penn Hall; Henry F., Millersville; James C. and Daniel N., Hastings, Nebraska, and Mrs. Blanche Long, Steubenville, O.

The great grandchild present was Miss Helen, daughter of Harry and Blanche MacManaway, and grand-daughter of Jacob S. and Susan C. Meyer.

There was no lack of good cheer, hearty good will and pleasant reminiscence. The reunion will long be remembered as one of the brightest of days in the lives of each and all.

THE BATTLE OF ANTIETAM.

Interesting Reminiscences of this Famous Encounter by Col. Austin Curtin.

It was on that part of the field we had a good chance to see the terrible odds that were against our men on that eventful day. The U. S. Government has done much in the way of preserving the land marks and making the field what it should be and the end is not yet. They are going on and making avenues and roads and putting up monuments and making it what it will some day become as well marked as is the one at Gettysburg. The old Dunkard Church has been repaired and is now as it probably was before the fight. That was I think a mistake, the Government should have purchased it and kept it as it was, the writer saw it several times before anything was done in the way of fixing it up and it was sure a sight giving a good idea of the destruction by war. The timber is also cut down which changes the appearance of the ground materially, in fact the timber to the north of the corn field has been cut away, changing the appearance very much. The "bloody lane" is still there and the "sunken road" all reminding the ones who took part that day of the desperate fighting that was done there, and the very many of these troops which were nine months men, were in the very whirlpool of it and stood manfully to it. Soon as the places for monuments were fixed we began to move toward the observatory and from there had one of the most magnificent views to be had anywhere, and especially of the Battle Field. It is just a little to the North of the "sunken road" which is so well known, it is built of stone, and quite high, on the top of the wall rests a zinc plate covering the whole wall, on this plate pointing in every direction are arrows raised above the surface of the plate, and alongside of each arrow are the words in raised letters, (for instance in the direction of the Dunkard church) so many hundred yards to certain points. Then to Burnside's Bridge 2352 yards. It however, is not visible as it lies in a deep hollow along the creek. To McClellans head quarters 2300 yards, that is in plain sight and was in the Pry House. So on you may look in any direction and find just what are the most interesting points.

Very close to the observatory is the marker showing where Gen'l Richardson of our army was mortally wounded. Away off to almost the extreme right is seen the magnificent monument erected to Gen'l Mansfield who was the first Gen'l Officer on our side to fall that day, which event occurred early in the day. His was a most striking figure, tall well proportioned with long white hair and snow white whiskers. He was a most excellent man and a Commander. I had seen him many times previous to the fight in command of his Division. Where Gen'l Richardson went down is marked by a bronze cannon reversed and set in a foundation of stone. So too all those events are marked on the field in the same way and with an appropriate inscription telling of the event.

On leaving the observatory we took up the line of procession to the left to look over the ground at and about Burnside's Bridge, where we were more interested as far as placing the monuments of the Ninth Corps were concerned. Arriving there, all visiting the field got out of the conveyances and began looking up what was supposed to be the different points of that particular part of the Battle field. We soon found our course and followed it until the end was reached. Where we arrived on that day of Battle, as all the Commission were along we soon designated where we would like to have our monument placed, as did all the others who were connected with our Corps. Ours (the 45th) will be placed at the junction of the new road which has since then been made to Harper's Ferry, and the old road leading from Burnside's Bridge to the tomb. It is a most desirable and sightly place, nor could it be claimed by any other command as we were the only ones reaching that place. While it was not as far as we got, (for we were very near the place where the cemetery now stands which was almost to the edge of the town,) but it is the place where it will be easily seen and all inscriptions on it easily read; and on one of the panels or sides we will have stated where we were some hundred yards in advance and across the road in an orchard, which was as far as we got. We are on Government land, while the 100 P. V. was in advance of us some little way as they were acting as skirmishers for the Brigade and as they want to get nearer the town will have to buy a piece of land to place their monument if they want it advanced further and find a suitable site for it. But their committee may place it across the road from the one selected by the 45th, and it will be a most suitable place.

The 45th, monument will be a massive one weighing about 25 tons and about 15 feet high, surmounted by the figure of a soldier (a young man) with an old fashioned musket (Harper's Ferry) which he is holding in his left hand and having reached to his old fashioned cartridge box for a cartridge, is in the act of biting it, (as was done in those days.) Preparing to load his musket, showing to the generations of today the way those things were done in those days. (no breech loading guns used in that fight). A bronze plate with coat of arms of Penna. will be on one of the sides and the badge of the Corps on another. Then on one of the panels will be the number of Battles in which the Regiment was engaged and other matter pertaining to it. On another will be 45th, P. V. I. 1st Brigade, 1st Div. 9th, Army Corps, then on still another will explain where we got to that day, which is mentioned above. No two monuments on the field will be alike. The Government who has charge of the place will not allow it. There may be a similarity but not exactly alike, as to all the details.

The State of Ohio is putting up a fine monument to represent the 23rd, Ohio the one President McKinley served in but owing to sentiment it is being erected in a most out of the way place, away off to our left and behind a hill without a road to it and unless the Government or the state of Ohio builds one will be very much out of the way. It is said it is put there to mark the spot where McKinley as Commissary Ser'gt gave the Reg't coffee that day, I think it says so on the monument, we passed near where they were erecting it, but did not stop to read the inscription as time with us was limited. But that he did give coffee in that particular place during the fight is doubted a little by those who know as in no command we saw that day was there any time to think of coffee much less drink it. However it is a fine piece of work as are all that are being erected by Ohio. In fact all that are up as put up by any state are most beautiful and will compare with any on any field so far erected.

The Commission which consists of Gen'l Hawley of Media, Del. Co., as Pres. (he commanded the 124th,) Col. O. C. Bosbyshell of Phila. Treas. formerly of the 48th, P. V. and Gen'l W. J. Bolton of Phila. late of the 51st P. V. and Capt. Frank D Leib late of 48th, as Sec'y were present and with their help, which was given with willingness and with a desire to make all parties comfortable and with that view provided all the conveyances and arranged for the care of the guests at the hotels and Boarding houses and saw to it that the teams were in readiness to take all parties back to the station again when time for leaving arrived all such service was much appreciated. The members of the Reg'ts present were very much interested in finding certain points on which to place the monuments as designated for each. Gen'l John I. Curtin of Bellefonte was chairman of the Committee of the 45th, John H. Buckley of Tioga Co. late of Co I, Dr. J. A. Myers of Columbia, late of Co. K, J. Hall Musser, of Harrisburg, late of Co. C, and the writer who commanded a Company in the 45th at that fight were on hand to represent the 45th. The genial George Foote of Mifflinburg (Editor and so forth), Col. Brooke, of Phila. (late Lt. Col. 12th Reg't N. G. P.) and the versatile and witty John Brunner, Alderman of Easton Pa. were representing the 51st, Reg't Capt. Mayes a most excellent officer of the old 48th, (now of Shamokin) and others whose names I cannot now recall represented that Reg't Col. McCanant of Harrisburg, and Hon. J. S. Hicks of Altoona, represented the 125th Reg't.

After we had settled about all the places for monuments for the Reg't of the Ninth Corps, we made our way to the old town to see about something to eat, we filled up all the hotels and boarding houses. While I cannot say about the boarding houses did not stop at one, but as to the hotels, it would be a good thing if some one that knows how to keep a hotel would go there and open one. I have been there several times and the hotels are no better now than when I first began going there in 1879, if anything worse. It is a quaint old town way behind the times always was. Citizens good, kind and friendly, but slow. Business good, good country around, good roads and houses fair, some of them very old fashioned. Town suffered very much from that battle, people all fled who could get away, many went about three miles into the country to a cave and remained until the fight was over. The town and vicinity was loyal during the war. it furnished 200 men who enlisted in what was called the Potomac Home Guards and served from Sept. 1861 until 1864, were in numerous skirmishes, were all captured once by Stonewall Jackson at Harpers Ferry and paroled. Then another thing here were only about half a dozen went into the Rebel Army from that town and vicinity showing the town was truly loyal to the Union cause.

If this letter will awaken an interest in the Antietam Battle Field and all its historic points and will turn the steps of many to that point the writer will be content for all the time and trouble he has taken to write it. It is only little further than Gettysburg, and not much harder to get there but when there you will find a field on which the most desperate fighting was done, second to no other field during the whole war. Men of the bravest kind charged up those hills against the most fearful and against the flower of the Rebel Army behind fences and stone ones at that and actually drove the enemy from their strong holds and forced them back to such a degree that they were unwilling to risk another days fight and on the second night after, retreated and our men would have been too glad to have pushed them into the Potomac but were restrained from doing so because of either divided counsels or fear of failure or something, what it was no one seems to know.

Now how to get there, from Harrisburg take the Cumberland Valley R. R. to Hagerstown, 74 miles, thence to Antietam 14 miles and you are there. Just as easy to reach and only a little further than that other great field, Gettysburg. The ride is a beautiful one, the scenery along the route the very finest, every place historic, the country around and about Sharpsburg the very finest that lays out doors, and so much to see that is interesting that you will never forget it. At Gettysburg the places are marked with monuments and nothing else, at Antietam Iron plates are erected all over the field giving the names and history of every command in both armies and giving a full and complete idea, so that at a glance any one who belonged to any command can tell just where he was whether monument up or not, so it is with the Rebel part of the field, now at Gettysburg on what is called Confederate Avenue, is marked that way but the Union lines are not, at least were not, when I was there last summer.

The cemetery just on the edge of the town is one of the most beautiful ones as kept up by the Government. It is on the rising ground the town lies in a deep hollow surrounded on nearly every side by pretty high hills and the cemetery is on the one going out toward the Antietam creek on the Keedysville Pike. Directly the opposite way is to go to the R. R. station. The Gov't has built a most excellent road from the one to the other. It is in the eastern end of the town and the station toward the western. Very much of the Battle Field may be seen from the cemetery. It is beautifully laid out and kept in most perfect order. During the fight it was a strong hold (no cemetery there then) of the Rebels, and our commands of the Ninth corps reached very close to it, our Monuments will be not a sixteenth of a mile away. 4600 dead find repose in it, a good many of them from old Centre Co., 2860 are known and 1830 unknown. They are all buried in brick vaults and are marked by head stones with name, but to find Reg't one must apply at the keepers house and get the Register and by looking at the number the Reg't is soon found.

A number is also found on every grave stone. Each state has a plot of its own and it is easily found. In the Penna plot there are 689 dead known, of course very many who were killed or died were taken to there home. In the unknown plot only the ruler of the Universe knows who they are whether from Penna or any other state.

In almost the exact centre stands a huge monument and on top of it a Union soldier dressed in full uniform and holding a musket. The soldier stands 22 feet in height the entire monument is 47 feet high and weighs 250 tons. The statue itself weighs 29 tons all of granite from Westerly R. I. It is a most beautiful spot and well worth a visit, drives run all through it and a handsome lodge at the entrance, which is through a beautiful iron gate. The lodge is for the house of the keeper and for accommodation of visitors. A very good war museum is also there and contains many relics of the fights around that historic country.

Late in the P. M. each Regiments representatives presented their choice of design to the Commission, (representative of various firms of monument builders were there to submit designs,) after which the Commission left by carriage to catch the trolley to Hagerstown. All who did not care to go that way remained for the night train and visited other places of interest in and about the town putting in the time in a most useful and pleasant way. One place we visited was the Memorial Church (Lutheran). The old church was destroyed or nearly so by the shells during the fight, and it occurred to some parties to build a Memorial Church so they began it and with hard work got just so far, and stopped. It is a little further west than the old one. Then it was left to a son of Centre Co. to be called to it and from the carpenters bench which took the place where the seats should be he seated it and paid off the big debt and there is only about 800 due on it yet the seats are beautiful folding chairs and on each one is a brass plate any one paying two dollars can have any name put on the plate he wants, there are chairs there for McClellan, Burnside, McKinley and many other notables, and it was the desire of many of us to sit down in the seats designated by the brass plates. The memorial windows are of the most beautiful pattern and placed there by loving friends for many who fell on that field.

There are one or two yet to be taken. There was not a window in it when he came there it was all boarded up. He has been there nine years, and is doing a most effective work. I nearly forgot to tell who it is, the Rev. Kerlin formerly of Centre Co. and a son of Peter Kerlin. He is well known to many people of Bellefonte and vicinity. He was wonderfully glad to see us from old Centre, as he also was to meet all the men who called on him that day. Some of his seats were taken then, as the names are designated he places the plate on them. The Ninth Corps Association are thinking of putting two circular windows in the east end of the church. Had all the parties remained until we visited the church it would have been decided then, but most had gone. When we go there to dedicate our monument on the 17th of next Sept. (the date fixed) we will be very sure to order the windows, as it will come up in good time before so many get away as did this time.

I will relate a little incident that happened just before we fell back to our original position at the time of the Battle, not far from the town on the road we were advancing on, or near it, there is a Stone Grist Mill and just across the road is a Stone House which belonged to it. The road makes a sharp turn and leaves the house fronting the road the mill a little to the left. When our skirmishers (I think which belonged to Co. K, advanced toward the house and only a few rods from it, they were fired upon by some soldiers of the Rebel Army who were in the house, and several of our men fell dead in the road. When we came up to the place we found them lying there with their pockets turned wrong side out, their effects, (if they had any) were taken from them, part of our men then charged the house and entering it found several soldiers of the Rebel Commands in there, and who could not make their escape, they were captured and it was with hard work our officers prevented them from being killed. The Miller was also taken and all were sent to the rear. We then obliqued to the right and entered the orchard written of above, and soon after not being able to hold the line owing to reinforcements not being sent, we fell back to our original position. We kept the prisoners with us and when we left there took them along. The Miller was made to believe he would be shot and was scared nearly to death, after keeping him for three or four days, he was released and sent to his home (we encamped not far from there for several weeks after).

ONE STEP MORE

Will be fatal to the sleep-walker. Will he draw back or will he take the final, fatal step? A great many people are in peril like the sleep-walker. They are diseased. The disease is progressing day by day. The time comes when one more step away from health is fatal. The man who has suffered from indigestion or gastric trouble goes some night to a dinner and returns home to find he has taken that last step from health which can never be taken back.

To neglect the cure of indigestion or some other form of stomach trouble is dangerous. It is also inexcusable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood, stimulates the liver, cures biliousness, and eliminates bilious poisons from the system.

"The praise I would like to give your 'Golden Medical Discovery' I cannot utter in words or describe with pen," writes Jas B. Ambrose, Esq., of 1205 ½ Mifflin St., Huntingdon, Pa. "I was taken with what our physicians said was indigestion. I doctored with the best around here and found no relief. I wrote you, and you advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I felt so good that I stopped—being cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

If you ask your dealer for "Golden Medical Discovery" because you have confidence in its cures, do not allow yourself to be switched off to a medicine claimed to be "just as good," but which you did not ask for and of which you know nothing.

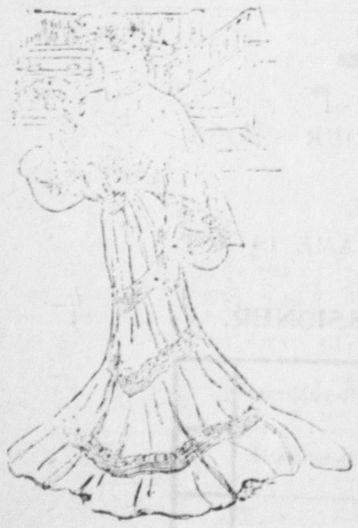
ELAINE ROZE'S PARIS BUDGET.

Old Favorites Not to Be Ousted.—Tailor-Made Still to the Fore. Exquisite Waists.

Another attempt is being made in Paris to oust the old favorite the tailor-made. These attempts are periodical, as the French woman has always been deadly opposed to the severe style which, while it brings out the good points of the Viennese—who, by the way, were the first to adopt the style—and of the American woman to whom it is particularly becoming, the French beauty requires frills and furbelows to appear at her best.

But what the American woman likes and wears, from her C-B a la Spirite corset which the "American figure" is cultivated, down to her patrician booted foot is with the growth of the American invasion, becoming the last word in the fashion centres, and her tailor-made she will have from the mixed tweed with fleckings of color for morning wear to her richly trimmed broadcloth or velvet for more formal occasions.



With the continuation of the skirt and coat costume, comes marvelous development along the shirt waist line, the most elaborate of them being called dress waists. The latter are usually embroidered or lace trimmed, and very often both, and velvet makes one of the most elegant backgrounds for such adornment.

A beautiful Forsythe model is of moss green velour, worn with a mixed tweed skirt.

Now as to house toilette and gowns for theatre wear. Never before were created such exquisite, delicate, cloud-like affairs, seemingly wrought by fairy fingers, reviving all the choicest coquetries of past generations. One exquisite model among the budget of beauties I have culled for you, from the great Parisian modistes' best, and which is here illustrated, is composed of pure white Peau de Crepe, silk embroidery and French lace. The trained skirt is made very full with three wide insertions of lace. The decoration of the bodice is a deep, drooping drapery of lace, falling over a full flowing sleeve, beneath which is a lace under-sleeve.

WONDERFUL RECORD

Dan Patch in Trial Against Time Made a New World's Record

WENT THE MILE IN 1:56 1-4

Clipped Three-Fourths of a Second Off the Time Made by Prince Alert Last Month.

DEMONSTRATION GREAT IN FINISH

MEMPHIS, Tenn., October 23.—The third day of the harness racing at the Memphis Trotting association track was made memorable by the magnificent performance of Dan Patch in a trial against time. The handsome son of Joe Patchen made the mile in 1.56¼, clipping three-fourths of a second from the world's record of 1.57, held by Prince Alert, and lowered his own record by two and three-quarters seconds. The mile was paced without a wind shield, and at the finish Dan Patch seemed as fresh and vigorous as at the start.

The demonstration that greeted the new world's pacing champion as he flashed under the wire was a memorable one. Horse owners who stood about the track before the starters had caught the time with their own watches and before the official time was flashed out across the track sent up a mighty shout and threw hats and caps high into the air. The shout was caught up by the people in the grand stand and on the club house grounds and the victory of the new pacing idol was proclaimed in a long, hoarse roar that rose and fell and reached its climax in a frenzy of noise as driver M. C. McHenry pulled up before the judge's stand and doffed his hat in acknowledgment of the acclamation. The trial was made with two runners to set the pace, the sulky preceding the pacer carrying a canvas strip between the wheels. The quarter was reached in 29 seconds, the half in 58 and the three quarters pole in 1.27¼. As the horses swung into the stretch Dan Patch was pushing the forward runner so closely that scarcely a hand's breadth intervened between his nose and the back of the driver in the forward sulky.

With the exception of the 2.08 class trot, the events of the card went to favorites all in straight heats except the first race, which required a third start.

Sleeping After Dinner.

Physicians are, as a rule, of the opinion, that sleeping directly after eating, especially after the principal meal, is injurious to health, and this is so far the reason that the process of digestion is retarded during sleep. Persons whose calling compels them to sleep during the daytime should, therefore, avoid sleeping immediately after eating. This rule seems to be in contradiction with experience. There are many who after dinner feel a strong desire for sleep which they are unable to resist, and little children, who, as a rule, behave instinctively with the laws of hygiene, fall asleep after eating. From this it might be argued that nature herself points us to a nap after eating. Nevertheless, the desire of grown people to sleep after dinner must be regarded as a bad habit rather than a natural impulse. Frequently the tired feeling after eating is a result of overloading the stomach. But, also, physical and mental activity after dinner is injurious. Those who can afford to do so should, after dinner, either sit in a comfortable chair or lie with raised head on a sofa and spend half an hour or so with light reading. Only persons who are sick or weak from old age do well to take a rest after dinner if they feel the desire for it.

A Few Conundrums.

What is it that stings worse than a rattlesnake and is to be more dreaded than smallpox? Answer: A lie. Did you ever sit beside a boy in school and see him do something wrong when the teacher's back was turned, and then, when the teacher asked him if it was he, hear him deny it? Could you think of him as a friend? Did he not dull the sunshine and poison the air where he went?

Another conundrum: What is it that shines brighter than the sun and sounds sweeter than music? Answer: The truth. Did you ever sit beside a boy in school who, when he had done something wrong and the teacher asked him if did it, owned up at once and took his punishment like a man? If so, how did you feel towards him? Did you not admire and love him, because he told the truth at whatever cost? After school did you not give him half your apple and ask him if you might not be friend?

Speaking of apples, how do you like to pick out a nice, plump, rosy apple from the barrel and put it in your pocket for lunch at recess or in the woods, and, when that time comes, take a good, generous bite out of it and find that it's all decayed on the inside? Not very pleasant is it? Well a dishonest boy or girl is like nothing more in the world than that apple. He may appear well, and what he says is very fair and fine, but below the surface he is unsound and bad. If you wish to be sound and good to the core, if you wish to be loved and trusted and valued you must be honest.

Short of Material.

A successful merchant, whose bald head is like an ivory billiard ball, was lecturing his fourteen-year-old son whose tastes are becoming a little bit extravagant, according to his father's standard. "My boy," he said, "when I started out in life I did not have a penny to my name. I am a self-made man." The incorrigible youth whispered to his mother, who was sitting nearby. "says, ma, there must have been a corner in the hair market when pa was making himself."

THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

Ohio Marshall Killed in Fight With Negroes,

DOWIE ON THE DECLINE

His Meeting in New York Sunday Was Devoid of Interest-An-archist to be Deported.

TO DEMONETIZE MEXICAN COIN

WHEELING, W. Va., October, 26.—John Elliott, Marshall of Flushing, O., was shot and killed Sunday night in a clash between officers and a mob of negro laborers and foreigners. The battle took place in the tunnel of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, at Flushing.

Marshall Elliott was called to quell a disturbance in the streets caused by the negroes. The officer, cautioning them that a repetition would mean arrest, was assaulted. Elliott ran for reinforcements and when he had returned the men had disappeared. Elliott tracked them to the tunnel, where they had fortified themselves. Elliott led an attack on the men, and fought the gang hand to hand. He was shot in the back, and died in thirty minutes.

A dozen negroes were in the gang, six of whom are under arrest, strongly guarded to prevent lynching. One negro was shot in the encounter and is not expected to live.

NEW YORK, October, 26.—John Turner, an Englishman who was arrested here while delivering an address, by officers of the Immigration Bureau, the arrest being made under the section of the immigrations law empowering the Secretary of Commerce and Labor to apprehend and deport Anarchists, was given a hearing before a Board of Special Inquiry at Ellis Island Saturday. He was ordered excluded, and will be deported Wednesday.

"We have been waiting for Turner for about three months," said Immigration Commissioner Williams. "We knew he was bound for this country, and every ship's manifest has been carefully scrutinized. We have had several misunderstandings through holding up the wrong John Turner. How Turner got into the country is a puzzle to us. The authorities in Washington learned of his presence here, and sent the warrant."

Turner refused to tell how he reached this city, but Mr. Williams belives he came in by way of Canada.

NEW YORK, October 26.—Sunday was the most quiet one that Dowie and his host have passed since their invasion of New York. Three services were held in the early morning, afternoon and evening, at the two latter of which the Garden was filled. The proceedings were marked by the absence of any attempt at disturbance.

The afternoon sermon presented no novel features, being devoted to Dowie's customary denunciations of Masonry and Roman Catholicism.

At the evening service, Dowie again denounced the Masons and delivered another long tirade against the press, declaring that this night he would have something to say about the New York reporters that would make his previous utterances appear mild by comparison.

MANILA, October 26.—The board of Philippine Commissioners has just issued a proclamation announcing the demonetization of the Mexican dollar on and after January 1, 1904. Until that date the coin will be accepted at all the government offices at the usual rate, which is equivalent to 50 cents American money.

MANSFIELD, Ohio, October 26.—Lieutenant Commander Martin Bevington, of the United States navy, formerly chief engineer on the battleship Kentucky of the Asiatic squadron, died of Bright's disease at the home of his brother here Sunday, aged 46. During the Spanish-American war he was inspector in the Bureau of Navigation at Washington.

There are 19,500,000 Catholics in the United States. They are ministered to by 1 cardinal, 100 bishops and arch-bishops and 12,500 priests, in 11,000 churches.

The war manoeuvres and the attendent explosion of blank cartridges having been completed, the people of Portland will now resume the even down East tenor of their humdrum way.

Cast your vote next Tuesday for the straight Republican ticket from Wm. P. Snyder down to Honest John Decker and then you will have done your full and complete duty as a Republican and a good citizen.

THE ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY.

Next Tuesday November 3 is election day. An auditor General, a State Treasurer, two Judges of the Superior Court and Jury Commissioner are the offices to be filled Turn out Republicans and vote a straight ticket and by so doing build for the future.

Don't make the mistake of staying at home because this is an off year. Next year we have a congressman, members of the legislature, judge, prothonotary and District Attorney to elect and we should strengthen Chairman Reeder's hands this fall by putting Centre County where she belongs, forever in the Republican column.

Will you do it Republicans?

Vote for John D. Decker for Jury Commissioner.

An average of 2,000,000 people in London never go to church.

By getting out the vote next Tuesday you are building for next year.

Vote for John J. Henderson and Thomas A. Morrison for Superior Court Judges.

Centre County is Republican. Let every Republican do his duty next Tuesday.

Every man on the Republican ticket is worthy of your support and should receive it.

The most encouraging feature of the Panama canal situation is that South American statesmen seldom stay bought.

Cannot someone persuade one of the physicians who ordered Hanna, Gates and Schwab to keep quite for months prescribe for Mr. Bryan?

Last year the farmers of this country expended for labor an average of $75 per farm, an increase of $11 per farm over three years ago.

One third of the college graduates in this country are women. Fourteen per cent of the wage earners are women. In Europe the percentage of women wage earners varies from 25 per cent in Germany and England to 40 and 47 per cent in Italy and Austria.

Vote for William L. Mathues for State Treasurer.

And now it is reported that Prof. Langley's favorite song is "Fly With Me."

Persia buys over $15,000,000 worth of foreign goods. Of this trade Great Britian gets 43 per cent the United States one two-thousandth of one per cent.

We do not doubt that Turkey could turn 1,000,000 men into the field, but we seriously doubt the Sultan's ability to feed them after he got them there.

"German lead pencils" are all made in the United States. E. Faber, the *G*erman manufacturer, established his factory in this country in 1861. He uses Florida cedar for the outside of the pencils.

Colombia will not ratify the Panama canal treaty; Colombia will ratify the treaty eventually; Colombia will insist on amending the treaty, and will then ratify it. Colombia will amend its constitution so that it can ratify the treaty as negotiated. Take your choice, but watch that little cloud of revolution in Panama.

Darky Expected to be White.

Residents in the vicinity of Penn Park, York county, are telling a wonderful story of a "ghost" that is lying low for trespassing in the park after the hour of 10 each night. Several times pedestrians going home by way of the park have been accosted by a deep-voiced visitation, and each has invariably fled without stopping to inquire whether the prowler was Hamlet's father's spirit or one of some other perturbed sort. One negro boy, who was badly scared, says when he got up the next morning he looked in the looking-glass to see whether he was black or white.

Bitten By a Copperhead.

Some time ago a small dog belonging to Henry Thompson, who lives about four miles north of Howard was bitten twice on the face and neck by a copperhead secreted in a pile of bark. The dog while making an effort to capture the snake was bitten. In a very short time the canine's head was swollen to almost twice its natural size, its eyes large and glassy, presenting quite a sad sight. Prompt treatment by the owner, in drenching several times with whiskey, alternate with lard and sweet milk, the dog, after three or four days recovered, and today lives to engage in a similay encounter with snakes.—Howard Hustler.

OCTOBER WEDDINGS

Quite a Number Of Marriages Were Solemnized

MANY LOVING HEARTS UNITED

The Beautiful Autumnal Month of October A Busy One for Dan Cupid.

NAMES OF CONTRACTING PARTIES.

RIDENBAUGH—COFFMAN.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Coffman, 310 Second avenue, Altoona, was the scene of a very happy wedding at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, the bride being Miss Mae Coffman, their very estimable daughter, and the groom Mr. Herbert G. Ridenbaugh, a worthy young man who is employed as a machinist by the Pennsylvania Railroad company. The attendants were Mr. Will L. Coffman and Miss Clare Coffman and the wedding march was rendered by Mrs. E. M. Heckman. The officiating minister was the Rev. J. E. Irvine, Ph. D., pastor of the Third Presbyterian church. After congratulations had been extended the assembled company sat down to a finely prepared wedding dinner. The bride is well and favorable known in Bellefonte her former home and this paper joins in extending congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Ridenbaugh will reside in Altoona.

BUCK—ZERBY.

At 11 o'clock on Wednesday morning at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Zerby, at Millheim, their daughter Miss Stella E. Zerby was wedded to Thomas R. Buck, of Berwick. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. W. Buck, father of the groom. Only immediate relatives of the families attended the wedding.

Immediately after the congratulations the wedding party retired to the dining room where an elaborate wedding dinner was served.

The bride and groom departed on the 3 o'clock train for Berwick where they will make their future home.

The young couple are highly esteemed and have the best wishes of all for their future happiness.

LUCAS—HARVEY.

The residence of Mrs. Rebecca Lucas of Howard was given over to friends and relatives Wednesday evening to witness the marriage of her daughter, Miss Anna Belle Lucas, to Mr. William I. Harvey of Flemington. The wedding was a very pretty one and the parlors were handsomely decorated for the occasion. The contracting couple, attended by Miss Nannie M. Lucas, sister of the bride and Miss Annie Jenkins of Milton as bridesmaids and Mr. Oscar Lucas of Altoona and Mr. Walter Jenkins of Milton as ushers, entered the parlor at 6 o'clock to the strains of Lohengren's wedding march rendered by Miss Mable Moore, and took their position in front of the officiating minister Rev. Irvin of the Christian church of Lock Haven, who performed the ceremony in the presence of about 100 invited guests.

After congratulations had been extended, a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. The bride is a very amiable and cultured young lady and received many handsome presents as tokens of esteem in which she is held by a wide circle of friends, while the groom is a rising young business man of Flemington.

This paper joins with their host of friends and wishes them long life and happiness. After a wedding tour to eastern cities, they will be at home to their many friends at Flemington.

*E*lection Day, next Tuesday, November 3, 1903.

Two Accidents.

Philip Durst and John Snyder figure in accidents which occurred Wednesday.

Mr. Durst was hauling rails on his farm east of Centre Hall, when his horses took fright and began to run. Thinking that by climbing on the wagon he could secure the lines and check the team, Mr. Duret mounted the wagon from the rear, but before the lines could be reached the horses had greatly increased their speed and making a short curve the wagon lurched and threw the driven from the wagon against the fence.

Helpless and badly bruised, Mr. Durst lay on the ground until picked up by Dr. Riter and Mail Routeman Will Keller, who were driving along the road when the accident occurred.

John Snyder received a severe cut on the head Wednesday morning by being struck with a milk can which he was loading at the Howard creamery plant at Centre Hall. Mr. Snyder's ankle was also injured through the mishap.

Lamar Lady Honored.

The annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Pennsylvania, recently held in Altoona, honored Mrs. Evelyn R. Huston of Lamar by making her head of the Temperance Light Bearer's work for another year. In her report of the work carried on by her band of juvenile temperance workers throughout the state she said: "The first child enrolled was Marie Swartz of Nittany vally in 1889. There are over 3,000 members now."

—Hallowe'en is approaching, and the boys are already getting ready to celebrated the event.

—George Cowey, employed at Knip's lumber job in Sugar valley, had his left hand nearly cut off by an ax in the hands of a fellow workman on Thursday. Mr. Cowey fainted from loss of blood before Dr. Goodman arrived.

$375 SENT FREE.

The Great Specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., Will Send $3.75 Worth of His New Treatment Free.

There never was a better opportunity for persons suffering from diseases of the heart, nerves, liver, stomach or dropsy to test, free, a well-tried and Complete Treatment for these disorders. Dr. Miles is known to be a leading specialist in these diseases, and his liberal offer is worthy of serious consideration.

His system of treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to the ordinary methods. It includes several remedies carefully selected to suit each individual case and is the final result of twenty-five years of very extensive research and experience in treating this class of diseases.

Each treatment consists of a curative elixir, tonic tablets, laxative pills and usually a plaster. Extensive statistics clearly demonstrate that Dr. Miles' Treatment is at least three times as successful as the usual treatment.

Thousands of remarkable testimonials from prominent people will be sent free. These show Dr. Miles to be one of the world's most successful physicians.

Col. E. B. Spileman of the 9th United States Regulars, located at San Diego, Cal., says. "Dr. Miles' Special Treatment has worked wonders in my son's case when all else failed I had employed the best medical talent and had spent $2.000 in doing so. I believe he is a wonderful specialist. I consider it my duty to recommend him." "For years I had severe trouble with my stomach, head, neuralgia, sinking spells and dropsy, Your treatment entirely cured me."

Mr. Julius Keister, of 350 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, testifies that Dr. Miles cured him after ten able physicians had failed. Mrs. R. Trimmer of Greenspring, Pa., was cured after many physicians had pronounced her case "hopeless."

As all afflicted readers may have $3.75 worth of special treatment free, we would advise them to send for it at once. Address, Dr. Franklin Miles, Grand Dispensary 501 to 511 Main St., Elkhart, Ind. Oct. 28-wk-17t

Vote for William P. Snyder for Auditor *G*eneral.

—Bishop Fowler advises young men to marry young women of common sense. The first step in this process, of course, is to find the young woman.—Detroit Journal.

—There was quite a time at the shirt factory Thursday morning. Mr. Ray did not know whether to turn off steam and give the hands a vacation or just what to do, but they finally concluded to work on even though Mr. Jno. Sharp, the foreman was carrying his head most awful high, owing to the fact that a fine little girl baby had arrived at his home that morning.

PORT MATILDA.

The autumn winds are blowing, the leaves have faded and are falling thick and fast and one young and tender branch has fallen from amongst us like the leaves upon the trees once so fresh and healthful, but has now gone to rest in that home in Heaven, where there is no more sickness, sorrow, pain nor death. Olive, at the age of 23 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Marks. "Be ye also ready for we know not the hour when our Saviour will call us." Funeral services over of the deceased were held in the Baptist church Monday Oct 26 at 2 o'clock. Interment in the Methodist cemetery.

Mrs. Maud Mitchell and Mrs. Nan Miller from Clearfield were visiting their many friends in this place last week, among the Woodring connections.

We think if the parents of this place would take more interest in their boys school work and keep them in the house in the evenings working on their lessons for the next day, we would not have so much bad conduct on our street. And when we have services in our churches they would know enough to have respect for their parents and God's house. If our authorities don't stop such conduct the church officers should take it in hand.

The farmers have been busy gathering their potatoes and apples in and are now beginning to husk their corn. The corn crop in our section is not a very large one.

We seem to get a share of the small shows in our little town. On Monday and Tuesday of this week in the K. G. E. Hall a man gave a slight of hand performance. We think he became so disgusted with the misbehavior of our boys that he left the town never to return again.

Saw It Snow For The First Time.

There are 10 Cuban students attending the Normal school at Lock Haven who have been eagerly waiting to see the first snow fall. They have come to the school from their southern homes during the past summer and in their country snow and ice formed in the natural way are practically unknown. The young people are now about to experience their first real winter and are consequently impatiently waiting for it; eager to be initiated into the mysteries of a northern Christmas. The fall of the white flakes during the "squalle" Monday was a great curiosity for the Cubans. The frozen streams the earth covered with its white mantle, the icicles and all the other accompaniments to a genuine old fashioned winter will be indeed a new and novel sights to them.—Lock Haven Express.

The house was insured, the furniture we understand was not.

WABASH THROUGH PENNS VALLEY.

Representatives of that Company are Looking up the Sir Morton Peto Survey.

There is a possibility of the Wabash railroad passing through the heart of Pennsylvania and through Brush and Penns Valleys. The Wabash has been making many preliminary moves for a line to seaboard, but as yet no definite route has been determined upon.

Beginning of last week eight representatives of this great railway system, which has the backing of the Goulds, the Rockefellers and the entire oil combination, made a tour through Penns Valley, covering the route of the Sir Morton Peto survey, made during the sixties.

This has always been regarded by the most competent railroad engineers as the easiest and most feasible route east. The line as laid out by Sir Peto connects the Atlantic and Great Western railroad with the Catawissa railroad at Milton, and passes through the borough of Centre Hall crossing Main street at the Evangelical church.

The Wabash line when built will be of equal importance with the Main line of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The attendance, up to this time, has been very regular with a few exceptions. These exceptions have given the School Board more or less trouble during the past few years, and notice is hereby given that after said date the parents of said delinquents will be proceeded against, according to law.

—James Hoover one of the workmen employed in repairing the trestle at R. B. Taylor's coal yard was quite severely injured Monday afternoon. They were raising the trestle work with a jack when it suddenly slipped and a beam struck Mr. Hoover on the side of the head cutting his ear and bruising his head quite severely. He is reported as getting along nicely and no serious result is apprehended. Mr. Hoover's home is in Runville, Centre county.

—The game laws of this state provide for more than the punishment of people for doing certain things out of season. The owners of land have rights that must be observed. If in quest of game or for any other purpose any one trespasses on cultivated lands, for hunting or trapping, he makes himself liable for a fine of five dollars for each offense, besides he can be made pay for all damages resulting from such trespass. For instance, a careful person may enter a plot of ground in which fruit trees have been planted, adjoining mountain land or forest, and would probably not do the least injury to the property, while another by a careless shot might destroy a thrifty young tree worth many dollars to the owner of the land. The game laws of this state are perhaps at present more rigidly enforced than any other on the statute, so it may be well for the trespasser to "look a little out" lest he get tangled in the meshes.

UNCOOKED FOOD FEAST

Elementary Pabulum Advocates Enjoy a Novel Dinner.

TO COOKS AND STOVES, FAREWELL

A Ten Course Dinner In New York, Including Twenty-seven Dishes, Prepared Without the Aid of a Fire—Eugene C. Christian, Physical Culturist, the Host—Nut Dishes a Feature—Sun Cooked Corn, Etc.

Simple diet is best, for many dishes bring many diseases, and rich sauces are worse than even heaping several meats upon each other.—Pliny.

Probably the most unique dinner ever held in the United States was enjoyed in New York by a large number of guests recently at the invitation of Eugene C. Christian. Mr. Christian, president of the Physical Culture Association of America, is well known as an advocate of correct living. He believes that most of the ills that flesh is heir to are the direct result of faulty diet, a diet in which predominate meats and heavy pastries and which are other foods frequently overcooked, and the aforementioned dinner was held to demonstrate the feasibility of living on uncooked or elementary foods, thus solving the problem of emancipating the housewife from the evils of the cook stove. In the entire ten courses, consisting of no less than twenty-seven dishes, not a single dish was cooked in or on a stove, and not a vestige of meat or pastry appeared. Notwithstanding these features, all present found rare enjoyment in the repast and averred that their hunger had been entirely appeased.

Many of the women, who, like the majority of housekeepers, had suffered for years the bondage of the kitchen and had experimented with cooks galore, vowed unhesitatingly that their season of servitude was now ended and that henceforth they would by following in the path blazed by Mr. Christian enjoy a glorious freedom never even dreamed of by housekeepers of the past. Then, too, the health of their families, the elementary foodists believe, will improve vastly through the introduction of the new dietary system, thus awarding them a double reward.

The menu placed before Mr. Christian's guests was as novel as it was interesting and was as follows:

Cream of Corn.
Unfired Wafers.
Ripe Olives. Celery.
Tomato Salad.
Stuffed Peppers. Blanched Almonds.
Mascerated Cereal Dates. Whipped Cream.
Sun Cooked Corn.
Pecan Meats. Brazil Nuts.
Eggnog. Unfired Bread.
Sweet Butter.
Fruit and Nut Medley.
Ginger Pudding, Whipped Cream.
Turkish Full Figs.
Spanish Persimmons. Pignolias.
Cream Cheese. Date Butter.
Unfired Fruit Wafers.
Ice Cream. Nut Fruit Cake.
Cereal Wafers.

The dishes were chosen with due regard to their combining qualities, and, in spite of their large number, no discomfort was caused. The cream of corn was served in cups and was made by extracting the juice from fresh green corn and combining it with milk and the proper seasoning. The unfired wafers and the unfired bread were distinct innovations even to those folk that considered themselves somewhat experienced in uncooked food affairs. On being questioned, Mr. Christian stated that they had been placed in a cabinet lined with electric lights, giving a temperature of about 140 degrees F., and dried. This process gives the wafers and bread a peculiar whiteness.

The sun cooked corn was cut from the cob about two weeks before the dinner and dried out of doors. To prepare it for use it was soaked in milk.

On a page of the menu was a quatrain expressing sentiments distinctly appropriate for the occasion. It read:

We may live without poetry, music and art;
We may live without conscience and live without heart;
We may live without friends, we may live without books,
And civilized man may now live without Cooks.
—Apologies to Owen Meredith.

In a speech Host Christian stated that the dinner was but one of a series that he purposed giving. He thus hopes to spread further the gospel of elementary foodism. By a series of exhaustive experiments he has demonstrated that uncooked food, the food "that grows in the sunshine, among the breezes and the green trees," is man's natural food, and he is of the opinion that the closer we adhere to nature and her simplicity just so much further will we have advanced toward the solving of the all important food question and its relation to health.

Among the guests were several men and women having rank as authorities on dietetic matters. Albert and Dr. W. R. C. Latson, publisher and editor respectively of a well known health magazine, were among the speakers and expressed interest and delight at the unqualified success of the dinner.

One of the women, who is an advocate of elementary foods, told of the envy her comparatively care free life had aroused among her sister housewives. A neighbor recently said to her: "Why is it that your home life is so simple? You do not even have a cook, and yet you yourself never seem overburdened with work."

"Well," was the reply, "for breakfast I eat a bunch of grapes, and my husband drinks a quart of milk."

EMMET'S BURIAL PLACE.

Irish Patriot's Bones Said to Be In St. Peter's Churchyard, Dublin.

Dr. Thomas Addis Emmet of New York has probably solved the mystery of the burial place of Robert Emmet, his great-uncle, the famous Irish patriot who was put to death by the English for high treason at Dublin on Sept. 20, 1803, says the New York Herald. In the Emmet family vault in St. Peter's churchyard, Angier street, Dublin, Dr. Emmet is convinced, the bones of his ancestor lie.

In his three months' trip abroad, just concluded, Dr. Emmet was unable to obtain permission to open this vault. He finally and positively proved, however, that Robert Emmet's body is not in St. Michan's churchyard or in Glasneven. Tradition has never gone outside the three in designating the patriot's last resting place.

That Emmet's body lies in the family vault Dr. Emmet is assured from the elimination of the two other supposed burial places and from several other facts. Robert Emmet's sister was the wife of Robert Holmes, a noted barrister, who, returning from England on the night of the uprising for which Emmet was hanged, was arrested in Dublin and thrown into the tower prison. His family knew he was in Dublin, but learned no more of his fate. A year later, months after Emmet's execution, Holmes was released and, going home, was met by his wife. She fell dead in his arms, killed by the shock.

Mrs. Holmes was buried in the dead of night, contrary to all custom, and her body placed in the Emmet vault in St. Peter's, where lay her parents' bodies. Dr. Emmet believes this was done to enable the removal of Robert Emmet's body from the receiving vault in the same churchyard and its burial in the family vault.

When an edict prohibiting burials in Dublin was issued in 1840 the headstones and tomb covers in St. Peter's churchyard were taken up and the surface covered with a thick layer of cement. The stones were replaced promiscuously, merely indicating that the bodies they commemorated lay somewhere in the churchyard. Objections of families whose ancestors are buried there prevented Dr. Emmet from excavating.

DISTRESS OF MACEDONIANS

American Woman's Efforts to Save Balkan Refugees.

The correspondent of the London Telegraph on the Macedonian frontier recently sent to his paper a long description of the refugees arriving at Rila monastery, after fasting for days and sleeping in the open air with the thermometer 34 degrees, and telling of their gratitude to the monks, who shared with them their black bread and salt and exhausted all their resources to succor the hungry fugitives. The correspondent adds:

"But this help, despite the sacrifices it imposed on the monks, was but as a drop of water in an ocean of fire. Scores of poor people must have perished miserably but for the timely assistance of a beneficent American lady, Mme. Bakhmetieff (formerly Miss Beal of Washington), wife of the Russian diplomatic agent at Sofia, Bulgaria. Without losing a moment, this philanthropic lady dispatched $5,000 and a sister of charity to relieve the needs of the innocent outcasts. A MILLION FOR A GRANDSON

John D. Rockefeller Said to Have Offered a Fortune For a Boy.

John D. Rockefeller, disappointed because the baby recently born to Mrs. Harold C. McCormick, his favorite daughter, is a girl has offered a million dollars for a grandson, according to statements made in Chicago newspapers, says the Kansas City Star. "I would have given a million dollars if that baby were a boy," Rockefeller is quoted as saying. "I will give a million dollars to the grandson that smiles at me, as little Jack used to do."

When John D. McCormick, his favorite grandson, whom he called little Jack, was stricken with scarlet fever Rockefeller is said to have offered Dr. Holt, the New York specialist, a half million dollars to save the child's life.

Free Delivery For Zion City.

Arrangements for the coming introduction of free delivery at Zion City are progressing, says a Waukegan (Ill.) dispatch to the Chicago Inter Ocean. There are to be added to the force three letter carriers and one substitute carrier. There will be set up twenty-two street letter boxes and four package boxes. It is a rare thing for a new office to get free delivery within sixteen months of its opening, as is the case at Zion City.

An Automobile School.

One of the reasons given by a London firm of automobile manufacturers for the establishment of a school for teaching the entire art of handling and running an automobile is that the demand for skilled men has become so great that their own experts are constantly being taken away from them by offers of higher wages from their patrons. The fees of the school will be for seven lessons about $25 for a gentleman driver, $15 for a lady and $10 for one who wants to become a professional driver. One of the leading features of the curriculum will be instructions in the amenities of the road so that automobiling may not fall into disrepute.

THE PAPAL CONCLAVE.

Cardinal Gibbons Describes the Election of Pius X.

HE PLEADED AGAINST PROMOTION

With Tears In His Eyes, Cardinal Sarto Implored His Colleagues Not to Choose Him as Successor to Leo XIII.—Absolute Freedom and Fairness Marked the Election.

At a service of thanksgiving for the election of the new pontiff, Pius X., recently held in the cathedral at Baltimore, Cardinal Gibbons, who preached for the first time since his return from Rome, gave an impressive description of the conclave and of the new pontiff, says the New York World. He said in part:

"The conclave marks a new and important era in the annals of the American Catholic church. This is the first time in the history of the Christian religion that the United States or any part of this western hemisphere was ever associated with the other nations of Christendom in selecting a successor to the chair of Peter.

"I should not be at all surprised if in the next conclave the Catholic church of the United States will be represented by several members of the sacred college, so that the number of cardinals from our country may be commensurate with the population, the grandeur and the commanding influence of the nation, and may be in keeping also with the numerical strength of our hierarchy and laity and the splendor and progress of our religious and charitable institutions.

"I was present at the conclave and took part in its proceedings, and without revealing its secrets I can most positively assure you and the American people that the election of the pope was conducted with absolute freedom, with the utmost fairness and impartiality and with a dignity and solemnity becoming the august assemblage of the sacred college and the momentous consequences of their suffrages.

"I have witnessed debates in the British parliament, in the French chambers and in both houses of congress, and I must candidly say that in sobriety of language and in courteous deportment of members toward one another the college of cardinals surpassed them all. And this is the more noteworthy when we consider that some twelve different nationalities, swayed by as many national characteristics, were represented in the assembly. On leaving the Sistine chapel at the conclusion of the conclave and contemplating the overruling action of the Holy Ghost on these heterogeneous elements I exclaimed, 'The finger of God is here!'"

"The votes for Cardinal Sarto steadily increased from the first to the seventh ballot, on which he was elected. When the cardinal observed that the suffrages for him were augmenting, he was visibly disturbed, and in a fervent speech he implored his colleagues not to regard him as a candidate. Contrary to his wishes the votes for him increased. He then became alarmed, and in a second speech in most pathetic language he again besought the cardinals to forget his name, as he could not accept a burden too heavy for him to bear.

"All were moved by the modesty and transparent sincerity of the man. When he resumed his seat, his cheeks were suffused with blushes, tears were gushing from his eyes, and his body trembled with emotion. It was only after some of the leading cardinals entreated him to withdraw his opposition that he finally and reluctantly consented to abide by the will of God and accept the sacrifice. Never did a prisoner make greater efforts to escape from his confinement than did Cardinal Sarto to escape from the yoke of the papacy. With his Divine Master, he exclaimed: 'Father, if it be possible, let this chalice pass from me. Nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done.'

"When his election was officially announced, his florid countenance assumed a deathly pallor, and restoratives were applied to save him from fainting. So little did Cardinal Sarto expect to be the choice of his colleagues that on setting out for Rome he purchased a return ticket to his home in Venice.

"Pius X. is in his sixty-ninth year. The virtues of humility, sincerity, candor and benevolence are stamped on his features. I can characterize him in one sentence by saying that 'he is a man of God and a man of the people.'"

Knew What a Bay Was.

One day a little girl in the fifth grade came home from school and told her mother she knew all about peninsulas, harbors, islands, etc.

"Well," said mother, "tell me what a bay is." The child could not answer this, and her little brother said:

"Why, don't you know what a bay is? A bay is a red horse."

Soffel Gets Divorce From Faithless Wife.

Pittsburg, Oct. 23.—Peter L. Soffel, former jail warden, Wednesday received a divorce from his wife, Katharine Soffel, who aided the Biddle brothers to escape from jail in Butler a year ago.

A long letter from Edward Biddle to Mrs. Soffel was placed in evidence. In it Biddle referred to his escape and thanked Mrs. Soffel for having bought him paris green and other poisons at his request. The letter refers to her as his "pet" and "darling" and uses other endearing names.

Biddle advised her to get him what he had asked and he would do the rest, as he could lead armies, if he had an opportunity. He said he loved her more than life, and that, by not granting his request, she proved she thought more of Pete Soffel than she did of him.

Soffel was on the stand and said he had met his wife after her escapade and had given her money. He said he did not know of her infidelity until after the Biddle brothers escaped.

Six men were named as co-respondents in the divorce, but only testimony relating to Ed. Biddle and two others was brought out.

S. S. Robertson, attorney for Mrs. Soffel, appealed the case, alleging the court refused to permit the attorneys to cross-examine the witnesses.

Killing Bear in the Valley.

Four black bears have been killed in Nittany valley this week. Wednesday a mother bear and three cubs were seen near Lamar and a party started out to capture them. The bears were crossing from the mountain to the ridges on the opposite side of the valley. One of the cubs became entangled in a wire fence and was shot but the other three escaped. A young man named Hinds shot and killed a bear near Nittany a day or two ago.

READY FOR STILL HUNT

Republicans Prepared to Block the Democracy's Game.

NEXT TUESDAY ELECTION DAY

Young Men Are Volunteering All Over the State to Work to Get Out the Republican Vote, As Did Many Who Became Great Leaders.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, Oct. 27.—With election day but one week off Chairman Penrose, of the Republican state committee, has practically completed his work of this campaign, and for the remaining days of the contest the whole responsibility of the canvass has been shifted to the members of the county committees, the members of the vigilant committees and the other active workers throughout the state, upon whom the organization depends to get the vote to the polls.

While Chairman Penrose and Secretary Andrews will remain at headquarters until after the returns are in, they are now sending out their last batch of mail and a number of the employes at the committee rooms are being laid off, as all their work has been done.

During the last few days the most earnest appeals have been made to the county chairmen to spur their associates in the county committees so as to leave nothing undone in the final week of the campaign to insure the polling of every vote possible on Tuesday next.

A DEMOCRATIC STILL HUNT.

It is true that the Democrats of Pennsylvania have not for years been so demoralized and absolutely without organization and that they have not undertaken to put up a fight in the open during the canvass this fall. But it is also true that this fact has led to apathy in the ranks of the Republicans.

Some believe it would be easier to get out a good Republican vote had the Democrats made an aggressive and spirited contest. The danger to the Republican organization lies in Republicans taking it for granted that they are going to win by a large majority on account of the apparent indifference of the Democracy.

While the party leaders of the Democracy have not figured in this campaign and their candidates have been remarkably silent it should not be overlooked that the rank and file of the Democratic party are always on the alert to gain any advantage for themselves or their party whenever opportunity shall present.

There is not a Democrat who ever held office or who has aspired to office who is not looking forward to the Presidential campaign of next year. The federal patronage of which they had a taste in the two Cleveland administrations is ever before them. They long to be restored to the post offices, to the fat berths in the United States mint and customs service and to the desirable positions in the various departments at Washington and in the consular service.

The Democratic workers know that if there shall be a large Democratic vote polled in Pennsylvania and a correspondingly small Republican vote the election returns from this showing great Democratic gains will give encouragement to the Democrats all over the country, will put new life in their party and start them out in fine form for the Presidential contest next year.

PARTY MEN ARE ALERT.

While Democrats are secretly speculating upon the national political situation and are determined to get any advantage possible out of the election next Tuesday, it is fair to say that many Republicans have been aroused to the importance of the situation, and from now until the ballots are counted will work zealously to have their party make a satisfactory showing in the returns. They propose to go among their neighbors and have them arrange to get to the polls early on Tuesday next.

They will impress upon them the fact that one vote for the Republican ticket on election day means more than a whole year of argument in the cause of Republicanism or in advocacy of its principles.

The votes are what count, and this is another case where action means more than words.

The stay-at-home Republicans are little less than assistant Democrats, and it is to the stay-at-home Republicans that the party organization in this campaign is being urged to direct most attention.

If it be true that the Democratic managers have been carrying on what they might designate a "still hunt" campaign, it is more than ever essential that the Republican committeemen shall offset these tactics by going after the voters and seeing to it that they get to the polls.

The Republican who loans his horse and wagon to the committeemen to carry the voters to the election booth is as much a factor in the campaign as the wealthy man who sends his check to the state headquarters to help defray the expenses of the organization.

REPUBLICAN VOLUNTEERS.

The Republican who volunteers his services to work at the polls on election day is deserving to be enrolled among the "Honor Men" of his party. It is becoming to be the proper thing for young men to tender their services to the county committeemen for election day and in this way become acquainted with the voters of their respective precincts. The association and acquaintanceships thus made place the young men in line for consideration at the hands of the party leaders and frequently to advancement in unexpected quarters.

Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Blaine, McKinley, Roosevelt, and, in fact, nearly all the men who have been signally honored by the Republican party started in politics working at their polling places on election day.

WANT FIRST VOTERS

Pennsylvania Republican Leaders Seek to Enroll Young Men.

ACTIVE AGENCIES AT WORK

Club League and League of College Clubs Laboring With the Coming Presidential Election In View.

[Special Correspondence.]

Harrisburg, Oct. 20.—A feature of the present campaign in Pennsylvania is the determined effort of the Republican committeemen throughout the state to have all the young men who are qualified to vote cast their ballots for the Republican state and local candidates at the election to be held on November 3.

Particular attention is being given to this class of voters by direction of Chairman Penrose, of the Republican state committee, who is looking ahead for the presidential election of next year. Senator Penrose is a great believer in the policy of reaching out for the first voters, no matter to what party their fathers may belong, and getting them to cast their first ballots for the Republican candidates. He argues that this is one of the best ways to build up and strengthen an organization and to increase the majorities of any party. By continuing enrolling the young voters there will always be activity and vitality in the organization and there will be no danger of the party suffering from dry rot and failure to keep in touch with the march of progress.

It is believed that the efforts made to get the first voters out for the full Republican ticket will mean an increase of many thousands of votes for the Republican nominees next month.

There are two agencies upon which Chairman Penrose is relying to assist him and the regular party organization in this line of campaign work—the State League of Republican Clubs and the League of College Clubs. Much effective work has already been done through these agencies and more will be done before election day.

QUALIFICATION OF VOTERS.

This information bearing upon the qualification of voters is being circulated by the Republican state committee:

All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside.

Every male citizen 21 years of age possessing the following qualifications shall be entitled to vote at all elections:

a. He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least one month.

b. He shall have resided in the state one year (or if having been a qualified elector or native-born citizen of the state he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months) immediately preceding the election.

c. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election. A minor becomes of age on the day prior to the 21st anniversary of his birth.

REPUBLICAN LEAGUE WORK.

J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, who is president of the National League of Republican Clubs, is cooperating with Chairman Penrose in the campaign in this state.

"The Republican League," says President Moore, "is looking hopefully to Pennsylvania for splendid results at the coming election. The young men of Pennsylvania are being aroused to the great opportunity which presents itself to become enrolled in the Republican organization now so as to be in line early for the presidential campaign.

"The experience of the last decade and a half demonstrated the advantages and demerits of the two great political parties. We had two Democratic administrations, each of them depressing the business and laboring interests of the country, and we had two Republican administrations, each establishing confidence and restoring commercial and industrial activity. We are going to vote in another year for one or the other of these conditions.

"As we view the situation today it is hard to imagine how any sane man—familiar with the progress the country has made under Republican doctrine—could want to vote to restore the demoralizing influences of Democracy.

"The National Republican League stands for Republican principles. It believes the Republican party to be better in policy and performance than the Democratic party; better for commerce, better for manufactures, better for mining, better for the workingmen. It stands with its face bravely set against the conditions which destroyed the industries of the country under Democratic management. It stands against the return of soup houses and idleness.

"Believing in Republican policy and the wisdom of Republican legislation, the National League sounds the tocsin of 1904. It calls upon the farmer, the miner and the mechanic to compare the performances of the past decade and say whether Republicanism or Democracy has best served the plain people; it calls upon the manufacturer and employer to say whether confidence is best maintained under Democratic or Republican rule. The league calls upon thinking people to lay aside their local differences and lend their energies in the contest of 1904 to the continuance of the general conditions which distinguished the administration of McKinley and Roosevelt.

"It wants the young men of Pennsylvania to vote right this year."

ART TO THE XIV CENTURY.

First of a Series of Lectures Delivered by Helen A. Snyder, M. A, Ph. D.

Miss Helen A. Snyder, "Master of Arts" of the University of Toronto, "Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Berlin, gave the first of her series of lectures on "Florentine Art," in Mrs. Reeder's parlors Wed. evening. It was a rare an enviable treat, which those who were fortunate enough to be present enjoyed to the uttermost.

It was like the opening up of a new world, to be brought so intimately and personally, face to face with the beginning of that wonderful out burst of Art which has made Italy the mecca of the beauty loving traveller ever since.

She began by tracing the first crude attempts at delineation of the Christian thought found in the catacombs, followed by the decadent period of classical tradition in the Byzantine mosaics.

After picturing the life and character of that beautiful soul St. Francis of Assisi, she showed how he awakened the soul of the Italians to look at life afresh and to find "Divinity in humanity and humanity in Divinity," which prepared the way for the representation of the Madonna and the Christ Child.

The civic liberty of the city of Florence, as an early Italian Republic was explained and causes were shown why Art grew in such a soil.

Finally the work of the first of the early Florentine artists Giotto was indicated as a breaking away from old traditions into the expression of a new feeling, life, and color paralleled also by the rise of the Gothic Architecture in place of the classic and Byzantine tradition.

The appetite of all present was whetted for the further pursuit of the study to which this lecture was the Introduction.

HIS 50th BIRTHDAY.

A Surprise Party Thursday Evening at the Home of J. P. Smith.

Thursday was the 50th anniversary of the birth of our fellow townsman, J. P. Smith and last evening a surprise party gotten up by his friends was held at his home on North Spring street.

There were about thirty guests present and everyone thoroughly enjoyed his or herself. "Flinch" the game which is creating such a craze everywhere was the principal amusement of the evening.

Light refreshments were served during the evening and at a seasonable hour the guests departed wishing Mr. Smith many happy returns of the day.

The Rothrock Family Reunion.

Saturday Oct 18th, a family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Rothrock, a short distance from Bellefonte, along the Buffalo Run road. All their children were present, something that has not happened for a great many years. They had quite a social time and all enjoyed themselves.

They all partook of a dinner that was elaborate enough to set before a king. It was a day long to be remembered from the fact that the occasion may never be repeated in this life, as the family is considerably scattered.

Mr. and Mrs. Rothrock are among the oldest citizens of the county, being highly respected by all who know them. Mr. Rothrock is a practical farmer and has tilled the soil in Centre county for a great many years. He has raised a reasonable sized family and all of the children are doing well and are an honor to their parents. The children present on this occasion were as follows: Mrs. Samuel Marshall, of Kansas; Prof. Harry Rothrock, of Cannonsville, Eber Rothrock, of DuBois, and Frank and Martha at home.

DYER—KUNES.

The neighboring town of Eagleville was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday when Miss Josephine, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Kunes, was joined in the bonds of holy wedlock to Edward Orson Dyer, M. D., of Knowlton, province of Quebec, Canada. The ceremony was performed in the Church of Christ by the pastor, Rev. M. C. Frick, at 11:30 o'clock in the presence of a large assemblage of invited guests.

The bride entered the church, leaning on the arm of the groom, and was preceded by the bridesmaids and ushers, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Emma Frick. The bridesmaids were Miss Marie Griest of Unionville, Miss Gertrude Haggerty and Miss Annie Morris of Philipsburg; and Miss Olive Clark of Eagleville. The ushers were John K. Thompson, of Philadelphia; Herbert Clark of Alexandria, La.; D. Allison Irwin of Howard; W. Edgar Clark of Beech Creek.

The church was beautifully decorated, the color scheme being green and white. White dahlias, ferns and evergreens were banked and designed around the altar.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white China silk and carried a boquet of white roses. The bridesmaids wore white organdy and carried white chrysanthes mums. The bride's traveling gown was blue broadcloth.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents. The bride received may valuable and handsome gifts.

The bride is one of Eagleville's highly respected and admired young ladies of much personal charm. The groom is a practicing physician of Knowlton. The event of Wednesday was a result of the meeting of these two young people while the young lady was visiting friends in Canada recently. The happy pair left on the afternoon train for Canada, being accompanied to Lock Haven by a jolly coterie of friend who saw them safely off on the Buffalo flyer north. The congratulations of numberless friends are extended.

Nature "makes all things beautiful in their time" Every one of life's seasons, when life moves on Nature's lines, has its own charm and beauty. Man—woman dread that period when they must experience change of life. They fear that face and form may suffer by the change, and that they may fail to please those whom they love. The value of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription in this crisis of woman's life lies in the fact that it assists Nature. Its use preserves the balance and buoyancy of the mind and sustains the physical powers. Many women have expressed their gratitude for the help and comfort given by "Favorite Prescription" in this trying period. Its benefits are not passing but permanent and conduce to mental happiness as well as physical strength.

Residence of W. Homer Crissman On Fire but Flames Quickly Extinguished.

Quite an excitement was raised Saturday by the sound of the fire alarm, the signal being for the West Ward. It was at first reported to be the P. R. R. freight station but on further investigation it turned out to be the residence of W. H. Crissman on North Thomas street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Crissman are away and their daughters, Eva and Helen are keeping house and they were naturally very much frightened. The house was cold and the young ladies had a pretty brisk fire going. Miss Eva went to the garden to get some tomatoes for dinner when she discovered the roof was on fire near the eaves. The fire had caught from a spark from the chimney.

An alarm was turned in but in the meantime Harry Gerberick and H. F. Hartranft reached the scene and climbing to the roof by means of a garden hose succeeded in extinguishing the fire before the fire companies reached the scene.

A patch was burned in the roof about two feet square.
